Amar shonar Bangla ami tomay bhalobashi

I love you dearly,
My golden Bengal -
It is your skies and your air that
Forever fill my heart
With the resonance of a flute.

The wondrous smells of the mango orchards
 Thrill me in Spring
 And in the harvest,
 I see lush paddy fields
 Sway like gentle smiles..

I have witnessed such beauty, depth
And such tenderness
In you,
In the shades that you gently spread
Across the river banks
And beneath the mighty trees..

And when you speak,
Your words enchant
My being,
And when you cry inwardly,
I can not withhold my tears..

Sharthok jawnom amar jonmechhi ei deshe

My life meets its fulfillment,
In having born to your soils my Motherland,
My life meets its bliss
In having loved you.

I care little that you are not
Regal in your treasures of worldly wealth;
It is the deep nourishment of your love
That is the breath of my Life.

What exquisite passion
In the sweet fragrance of your flowers
And what gentle magic in the moonlight of your skies!

It was the light from your heavens
That touched my eyes open at birth
Let the same light kiss them asleep
When I depart.

Chokher aaloy dekhechhilem chokher baahire

I saw the world once
With the light of my eyes.
As it grows darker
I turn to my heart for a vision

When you disappear
beyond comprehension,
You are still present
In my inner world.
Like a halo of light
Which I behold you in.

I have played with you
In this play-house once
And now the toys
Are mercilessly broken
By storms that have swept my earth.

In respite
I look for the amazing bounty of life instead.

The strings of the Veena
Are broken for me;
But here is my heart
To play on.
